FPL to close customer service office in Glades

By BRENDA BUNTING
SUN Editor

Florida Power & Light will close their customer service office in Belle Glade in October.

Representatives for the company addressed the South Bay Commission Tuesday night and said they want the city to take over the job of collecting electric payments.

Pahokee officials have already agreed to be a pay station and officials in Belle Glade will be approached soon to ask for their approval.

Mel Chaney, customer service superintendent for FPL said the closing of offices is happening throughout the company's service area.

FPL has contracted with Eckerd's Drug Stores across the state to take over the service. But, Mr. Chaney said, since the Glades has no Eckerd's Drug Stores, they are asking

Man caught after robbing Royal's

By BRENDA BUNTING
SUN Editor

A Belle Glade man was arrested and charged with burglary to a business, grand theft, loitering and prowling and resisting arrest with violence after an incident last week.

Officers say they saw Israel Hester in front of Royal's Incorporated at 324 S.W. 16th Street, Belle Glade about 3 a.m. on July 28 with two new bicycles and a 50-foot extension cord on a reel.

Patrolman James Dingle attempted to arrest Hester for loitering and prowling when he said Hester began to fight to keep from being handcuffed.

Another officer, Patrolman

Eli Cano, assisted in the arrest with his K-9 dog Henny.

K-9 Henny accidentally bit Patrolman Dingle on the hand during the struggle.

Officers later found that a storage room in the back of Royal's warehouse had been broken into. A padlock had been pried off the door.

Employee C.J. Royal was called to the business and he said the bicycles and extension cord were stolen from the storage shed.

Hester was taken to the Palm Beach County Jail and booked. Bond was set at $1,000. The recovered bicycles and extension cord were valued at $559.90.

Male retreat held at Pelican Lake

By DAVID RANIERI
SUN Reporter

Concerned Black Men of the Glades held the first annual Male Retreat at Pelican Lake Sugar Camp in Pahokee Friday, July 27-Sunday, July 29.

Approximately 187 students from Lake Shore Middle School, Glades Central and Pahokee High School, ranging from grades seven through 12 attended the camp.

The program was the brain child of Al Royal, Eddie Rhodes, Michael Jackson, Elijah Thomas, Juan and Willie Pyfrom and is targeted for troubled youths, who may not have male role models in their homes. This program is an outgrowth of Lifelong Solutions for Male Students that was started at Lake Shore Middle School.

But Concerned Black Men of the Glades is a private effort and not associated with Lifelong Solutions for Male Students or the Palm Beach County School Board.

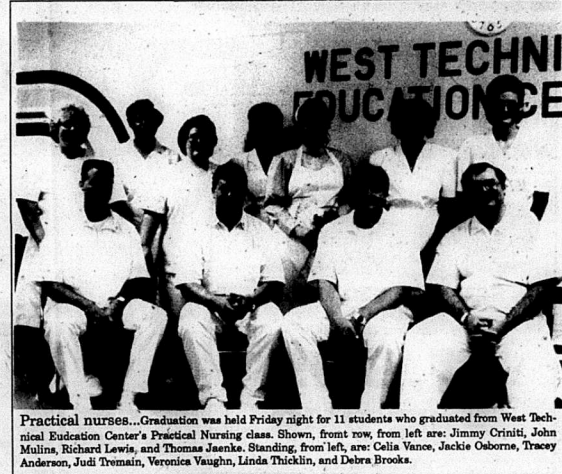

"This is an attempt by black men in the community to stress the value of role models, education, scholarship and de-emphasizing athletic achievement. Kids have other skills and talents," said Juan Pyfrom.

Richard Ramsey, principle of Lake Shore Middle School also agreed.

"As black men we need to be role models and one way is to be directly involved with the kids like we are at this camp," Ramsey said.

Donations helped to make the camp a reality.

US Sugar donated the facilities at Pelican Lake Sugar Camp and approximately 55 adult volunteers donated their

Three incumbants file for seats

Bill Bailey, mayor, Steve Weeks, vice mayor, and Crate P. "Happy" Tucker all filed this week to run for the seats they currently hold on the Belle Glade Commission.

Qualifying opened July 30 for the three seats which are up for grabs in the September 14 Belle Glade Commission race.

Mr. Weeks has served two terms on the commission. He is part-owner and treasurer at Seminole Supply Company.

Mr. Bailey is a real estate agent who was on the commission from 1963 to 1975. He then served as a county commissioner from 1976 to 1984 before returning to city government in 1989. He was re-elected mayor by his fellow commissioners last year. Happy Tucker is a farm manager for Lykes Brothers. He has served on the city commission for two terms.

City Clerk June Boglioli said one other campaign packet has been picked up, but no one else has qualified yet. The deadline to qualify is August 13.

Restoration of Everglades is underway

Part II
By TWILA VALENTINE
Who benefits from Everglades restoration?

This question leads a recent release on the topic from South Florida Water Management District.

The answer... Everyone. The Everglades is an internationally recognized ecosystem. It provides habitat for many threatened and endangered species of wildlife, helps ensure a fresh water supply for South Florida, moderates the region's climate, and attracts 1.5 million tourists per year.

What major concerns face the Everglades? Agricultural stormwater runoff. Farm water runoff containing elevated phosphorus levels has impacted approximately 20,000 acres within the Water Conservation Areas -- original Everglades regions.

This nutrient-enriched water upsets the Everglades' natural balance. One sign of this disturbance is the infestation of cattails, which choke out native flora and fauna, interrupting the natural food chain and forcing birds, fish, plants and other wildlife to find a habitat elsewhere.

Melaleuca. Many thousands of acres of this non-native tree-imported years ago from Australia -- now thrive in the Water Conservation Areas. Melaleuca, which has no natural enemies in Florida, is replacing the indigenous Everglades sawgrass marshes and uplands with a melaleuca monoculture. This district has been battling this nuisance three for years with manual herbicide application, the most effective measure to date, and is examining bug warfare to eradicate it. Changes in timing, quantity and flow of water to the ecosystem.

Construction of the 1,400-mile Central and Southern Florida Flood Control Project altered natural overland water sheetflow into the Everglades. Earlier this year, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers -- which built the system -- announced a $500,000 study to begin looking at a possible complete overhaul of the project to restore more natural water deliveries to the Everglades.

Mercury contamination. Mercury has been detected in Everglades fish in significant levels, prompting the state to issue a fish consumption warning in 1989. The state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) is spearheading efforts to identify the source (s) of mercury. The federal Environmental Protection Agency is also proposing an intensive, multi-year study to determine the extent of contamination and identify conditions that favor high mercury levels in fish. The district is cooperating with both state and federal efforts.

Explain Everglades clean-up programs which have made headlines recently:

In 1992, the district's governing board approved a comprehensive Everglades clean-up plan called the Surface Water Improvement and Management (SWIM) Plan, which outlined long-term restoration and protection programs. While all the above elements were addressed, the most widely discussed component of the plan was the agricultural clean-up that included developing 35,000 acres of constructed wetlands, known as Stormwater Treat-

West Tech opens new programs

After surveying the local community and careful consideration of current job market trends, the staff of West Technical Education Center has selected six new day programs to be opened for the fall term.

The business department has diversified to allow students to select courses that will provide skills to meet specific job categories.

The new programs are being offered in addition to those already in place: bookkeeping, data entry operations, and word processing/machine transcription.

Business Administration Operations is an advanced course that prepares students to become proficient in planning, organizing and controlling of a business. Instruction allows individuals to advance in the area of business administration and is highly recommended as supplemental training for persons already having clerical background.

The Junior Secretary Program prepares students for employment as secretaries or administrative assistants. This course includes office procedures and shorthand. The Computer Operations Program prepares students for employment as computer operators or data processing clerks.

Also offered is the Receptionist and Communications Systems Operation Program, that prepares students for employment as receptionists, general office assistants and information clerks.

New technical and industrial programs opening fall term are Diesel Engine Mechanics. This course trains students to be diesel mechanics for all types of diesel engines, including buses and trucks.

The Major Appliance and Refrigeration Repair Program provides skills for employment as a home service technician or appliance service representative. The repair and servicing of all major appliances are included in the curriculum.

New evening programs being offered are Blue Print Reading/Welding, Small Gas Engines and Electronics.

Registration will begin on August 9. The fall term starts on Monday, August 23.

Restoration

-ment Areas, to clean stormwater runoff before it entered the Everglades.

A number of lawsuits were filed over this plan, primarily from agricultural interests which are expected to fund clean-up programs.

In late 1992, to avoid costly and time-delaying litigation, parties involved in Everglades restoration agreed to hire a mediator to help resolve differences. In early 1993, a technical working group comprised of representatives from the various governmental, agricultural, environmental and other interests participating in mediation developed a "mediated Everglades restoration plan."

This plan expands upon the original clean-up plan as embodied in the Everglades SWIM Plan - providing all the original benefits - plus some additional ones including improved hydroperiod, greater stormwater treatment, and flood protection for western Palm Beach County.

On July 13, the district press release states, after months of discussion, a "statement of principles" was announced in the mediation process, outlining broad goals for a $465 million restoration plan.

Funding allocations, a special trust fund, and development of procedures to assure the program is enforceable were included. A 90-day stay of litigation was requested so parties could iron out details of this program.

How soon will restoration begin?

Some programs are already under way. The district has an active melaleuca control program; has been working with DEP to find the source(s) of mercury contamination, is currently conducting research studies and has future research efforts planned - many of which are joint initiatives with Everglades National Park; will finish construction shortly of a nearly 3,900-acre constructed wetland to begin treating agricultural runoff water before it enters the Everglades, has established a regulatory program with growers in the EAA to implement Best Management Practices (BMPs) to reduce phosphorus amounts on site; and is assisting the Corps of Engineers in its multi-year project to evaluate and then modify the 1,400-mile canal system to improve water deliveries to the Everglades.

How much and who pays?

According to the district press release, the mediated plan will cost $465 million: South Florida's agricultural industry will provide up to $322 million over 20 years with financial incentives available for phosphorus-reduction programs; the district will provide approximately $22 million per year by raising its ad valorem millage rate by 1/10 of a mill - or approximately $10 per household. State and federal governments also will contribute funding.

Road needs fixed

Thank you for allowing me to use the Speak Out. I am calling with regard to that stretch of road from State Road 441 North to State Road 98 - that is between the county barn and that section.

Now recently, they seem to have done some repaving. Unfortunately, it is worse than it used to be and I am not the only one who complains about this, but I've yet to hear anyone say anything about it here.

Those cross ties or speed bumps or whatever they call them are tearing up people's cars.

I had an experience where my car's air conditioner was knocked out of place simply because of those bumps there.

I don't know who to contact about this - whether it's DOT (Department of Transportation) the city, or who ever, but I'm complaining about this in the hope that someone will do something about this.

Because of this, many people are driving on that old State Road 80 (SR80) and it is not because they like driving there, but because of the condition of this new road that they have messed up by putting those cross ties or speed breakers or whatever they call them.

I just know that they're tearing up my vehicles and others too.

Thank you for allowing me the privilege of using Speak Out.

PIC office

I'm a citizen of Belle Glade and I'm calling to complain about the PIC (Private Industry Council) office in Belle Glade.

I believe the PIC organization would be a very worthwhile business if it wasn't for the local one here in Belle Glade. The Belle Glade PIC office is incompetent. They request you bring the same forms over and over again. They make you fill out forms you've never heard of and then continue to ask for additional information. Somebody needs to look into that.

They also do not do things on a first come, first served basis and they never find you a job. Would you believe some parents have to go out and find their child a job and then contact PIC and let them know they found them a job? Some of the kids have also not gotten paid and one of the programs has already closed. Somebody needs to look into this.

Editor's note: This Speak Out was edited because the caller repeated information already given.

Guest commentary A nauseated cretin

By Gaspar Pichardo

The press is afflicted by the same human weaknesses as any other activity. Journalism, on the other hand, is as sacred as other highly respected profession, such as the priesthood, educators and physicians.

The journalist must always be ready to tell the truth and to right any wrongs.

Recently, it could have been yesterday, because history repeats itself over and over again, the El Herald attacked the agricultural industry of South Florida, of which sugar producers are the most important.

We are making reference to the article titled: The Sweet Agreement with the Sugar Producers," signed by Carl Haasen, member of the El Herald staff.

This columnist is not exercising his sacred duty as a journalist; his article just shows his hatred for the directors of this industry and as a consequence attacks the 40,000 who directly or indirectly are benefited within Palm Beach, Hendry, Glades and Martin counties encompassing more than 425,000 acres.

Carl Haasen and the El Herald are not righting any wrongs, they are engaged in a campaign of hate and smear. The ink is still fresh on the name "Sugar Barons" coined by the El Herald as an insult to this industry.

The sugar industry is, according to statistics, published by the University of Florida, a major component in the agriculture of Florida. Agriculture generates over 1.5 billion dollars a year and creates over 33,000 jobs in south Florida.

Carl Haasen's article, "The Sweet Agreement," is an attempt to discredit the compromise reached between the South Florida Water Management District and the farmers; which is to improve even further the quality of our waters.

We titled this response to Haasen's article "A Nauseated Cretin" to warn him that they may choke in their own poisonous vomit.

We could even leave out the "cretin" part. The columnist from the El Herald knows well his own marked deck of cards. Carl Haasen blames the farmers for using the Everglades as a cesspool, that is absolutely not true.

No, Mr. Journalist. Take a tour of the Everglades and smell it. It would be evident to you that they are mistaken.

This is honestly told by someone who has made a living with his family for thirty years in the Everglades, which are given by God, for the enjoyment of the millions of species of animals, but also for human livelihood.

BBB survey ranks work-at-home schemes as top consumer concern

According to a survey of the nation's Better Business Bureaus, work-at-home schemes are perennial problems, but have been unusually troublesome recently as consumers turn to these supposed job opportunities as an income source in a weak economy.

The survey results were released at a recent U.S. Senate work-at-home and business opportunity scams.

Work-at-home advertisements usually are nothing more than plays set up by the advertiser to sell information to unsuspecting consumers leading them to believe they can begin their own successful business from their home. No actual employment is offered.

Last year our Bureau responded to 1,654 inquiries on work-at-home schemes. Nationwide that figure topped 176,000," said Ron Stephens, president of the Better Business Bureau serving Palm Beach, Martin and St. Lucie counties. "But despite warnings and on-going education efforts, consumers are continually lured by false promises of huge profits for easy, at-home work."

The vast majority of "jobs" offered by work-at-home companies are for stuffing envelopes. In fact, 96 percent of the Bureaus that responded to the survey regularly advise consumers on the pitfalls of envelope-stuffing opportunities.

Other popular fraudulent offers include assembling crafts, tracing unclaimed funds, reading books for pay, and selling lists and directories of work-at-home opportunities.

The survey showed the largest group victimized by the scam is stay-at-home mothers. Other home-bound groups particularly vulnerable to work-at-home promotions include senior citizens and persons with disabilities.

Ninety-three percent of the Bureaus surveyed said that work-at-home offers appear in classified ads, often in free weekly newspapers. Many Bureaus noted that the ads are not placed by local companies.

Instead, companies advertise in different states than where they are located to escape the scrutiny of local law enforcement agencies.

Other, less-common methods of promotion include direct mail, cable television and directories of work-at-home opportunities.

Despite receiving thousands of inquiries and complaints annually, law enforcement officials rarely crack down on the operators that run the scams, because the amount of money involved is relatively insignificant.

Only 23 percent of BBBs report any actions taken by law enforcement agencies, usually citing crack-down efforts by the U.S. Postal Inspection Service.

While consumers who send away for craft assembly kits may lose fees of hundreds of dollars, the majority of work-at-home scheme victims lose under $40.

The BBBs report that those victims who take the time to complain often receive their money back, if the company is still in business.

"If a consumer has lost money to a work-at-home scheme, we encourage them to file a complaint with the BBB," Stephens said. "More important though, we recommend consumers check out the company before doing business with it. Our motto is to investigate before you invest."

Looking for the yellow brick road

Dear Readers:

Most of us would like to be happy. Some people are happy to see a nice sunset, some people are happy if they have $20 in their pocket, some people are happy listening to music, and some people you probably know are never happy or satisfied no matter how good things are going for them.

What is involved with being happy varies from person to person. Our society has achieved amazing technological advances. Even people who are relatively poor today own things that an emperor could not even dream of owning 500 years ago (because they weren't invented yet).

With all the scientific wonders that are now present, and with all the sophisticated governmental entities that exist to supposedly ensure "the good life" for us all, you would think that most people would be quite happy. As you know, however, universal happiness is so far from reality today, that many have even given up on Utopian society as a dream. When dreams die, reality can be even harder.

While our science has advanced so that we can make amazing things, our psychological, spiritual, and emotional growth have not kept pace. Some would say that, as a society, we have regressed. Many people care less about their community, about each other, and about themselves than they did ten or twenty years ago. While everyone is busy scrambling and running in the rat race to get "what they want" most people don't stop to question whether or not "what they want" will make them happy. People searching for relationships, money, drugs, prestige, entertainment, etc. without stopping to question whether they truly are on the road to happiness. What most of us need to do more to is develop our own "science of happiness." Unfortunately, the government is not supporting any research projects on this topic, so we will have to do this without financial support.

I believe that for most people, "happiness" involves a contentment that arises from appreciating daily living, and not worrying so much about what you don't have. Happiness does involve planning for the future and setting goals, however you don't have to reject or hate your life today as you plan for tomorrow. Helping others, enjoying small accomplishments, and seeking spiritual understanding are goals that are often overlooked; but could significantly improve one's quality of life. It is very important for a person to be able to look forward to making positive changes while still appreciating the life he or she is living today.

If you would like to anonymously inquire about issues regarding yourself or your acquaintance, you may do so by writing to Dr. Boltson. You don't even have to give your name or address. Just mail all questions to:

New drug offers hope in the fight against cancer

After years of frustration and dashed hopes, researchers finally see some light at the end of a very dark tunnel. A new cancer drug, BR 96-DOX, has shown considerable promise in the fight against cancer.

BR-DOX, dubbed a "homing pigeon" for its ability to seek out and destroy cancer cells, had worked successfully to reduce and even cure cancer in high percentages of rats and mice implanted with lung, colon and breast cancer.

Unlike previous cancer fighting drugs which are moderate to effective on localized tumors, BR 96-DOX has gained headway in the ability to cure cancer which has spread throughout the body, particularly the lung, colon and breast. Another major hurdle overcome is the minimal harm BR96-DOX causes to the body's healthy cells.

The BR96-DOX breakthrough offers cancer patients hope, but researchers caution BR96-DOX is still in its infancy.

Florida families are needed to host exchange students

The Share! High School Exchange Program urgently needs a few more Florida families to host high school exchange students arriving soon from Brazil, Germany, Czech Republic, Croatia, Denmark, France and Spain and 10 other different countries for the 1993/1994 school year. The foreign exchange students, all between the ages 15 and 18, will live with a host family and attend local high schools for a semester or an academic year.

According to Beth Schumann, the Share! Director of Program Development, the program has already matched students with host families in Florida and would like to find homes for a few more. Prospective host families are able to review student applications and select the student they feel will best match the families needs and interest. The local Share! representative provides information about the program during an informal, in-home meeting. Share! can meet the needs of just about any family situation, whether it be a family with young children or with teenagers, an "empty nest", a single parent or a retired person.

The Share! students are carefully selected, speak English, are fully insured and bring their own personal spending money.

Share! host families provide a bed, meals and a loving home and may deduct $50 per month charitable contribution for income tax purposes. Throughout the year the local representative arranges activities and is available for support.

Anyone interested in hosting or obtaining more information should call Beth Schumann at the Share! national office 800/321-3738

Senator Connie Mack, a cancer survivor, has introduced legislation to make cancer screenings more accessible to Americans.

Glades girls do well at National Junior Olympics

Glades Central's Shudra Smith won a gold medal and set national and Junior Olympic records in the young women's heptathlon division of the National Junior Olympics at LSU in Baton Rouge.

Smith, 17, tied for first place with Melanie Skelton of Youngstown, Ohio, both scoring 4,823 points, which broke last year's record of 4,729.

Smith is one of the many fine athletes produced by Glades Track Club.

Smith was a seventh grader on Mike White's track team at Lake Shore Middle School when the idea of a track club came up. The club was formed because of school district budget cuts that forced Lake Shore Middle School to eliminate their track team.

White, who is a physical education teacher at Lake Shore Middle School, said Brian Brennan kept the girl's team alive thanks to contributions and fundraising. The club is now five years old.

Smith, a 5-foot-11 senior to be at Glades Central High School is now coached by Jay Seider who also helped to guide intermediate heptathlete Tiffany McKenzie to a 14th place finish with 3,361 points in Baton Rouge.

Current members of the Glades Track Club have helped to continue the fine athletic tradition that was set by Smith.

April Jones led the Glades contingent in Baton Rouge with a fourth place finish in the youth pentathlon. Danella Bythwood placed seventh and Jerkita McClorin finished 15th because of an early mishap in the hurdles.

Chimere Outler finished third in the midget girls pentathlon and Chimere Outler finished fourth.

The team is also comprised of White's daughter Kristin and Sharrell Johnson.

Five of the girls in the Glades Club hold state records in various events in their age groups.

Third in Kumite

He's got the moves...Shane Garrison competed July 10 in the 20th Annual U.S. Open Tournament in Orlando. Shane placed third in Kumite in his age division. Shane is a 3rd Degree Red Belt.

lose their jobs or be transferred to other departments.

FP & L closed down their office in Pahokee about three years ago. Belle Glade, Pahokee and South Bay residents have been coming to the Belle Glade office on Avenue B or mailing in their payments.

Other areas of FP & L's services will not be affected by the change, said Mr. Chinn.

South Bay's City Manager Lester Baird said the additional workload for the city may result in the city needing to hire another full time employee. The city would receive a $35 per transaction fee paid by the customer. Mr. Baird said he estimates the city would have approximately 800 transactions a month, providing the city an additional $800 per month.

"Perhaps this revenue could help to justify an additional employee or part-time employee to assist with our cashier and bookkeeping work that is currently quite strained," said Mr. Baird.

Palm Beach County to have a kid's newspaper

Palm Beach County will soon have a newspaper for, by and about kids. It needs a name and is asking kids for suggestions.

The monthly, 12-page newspaper will be like a grown-up newspaper with regular feature including:

National and International news: Interviews with leaders, visiting celebrities and politicians; informal articles about business, organizations and projects. At the end of each main feature article will be a column entitled "Read More About It!", with the titles and author of several books on the subject featured.

The arts: articles about Palm Beach county's visual and performing artists.

Health: articles of current health issues facing young people today.

Cultural heritage: articles on the many different cultures represented in South Florida. The articles will be children from the countries featured.

The environmental: articles on environmental issues facing young people today.

Business: local and national businesses that effect the lives of kids.

Local news: summary of recent events from throughout the county, written by kids who live in the featured communities.

Sports: articles about outstanding young local athletes and teams.

What Do You Think? Surveys asking kids their opinions on current issues.

Book, movie, music, television and computer software reviews

Letters to the editor: our young people speak out on issues affecting their lives, Palm Beach County and the nation.

Financial lessons: young writers will work with Palm Beach County's financial institutions to learn about money.

Profiles of a community leader: What makes leaders tick?

Calendar of upcoming events and opportunities of interest to young people.

Articles for the yet-unnamed newspaper will be written by kids in first through eighth grades and all Palm Beach county children are encouraged to submit their work. Editorial decisions will be made by a youth board of directors.

Children's newspapers, Inc. is a non-profit corporation established to publish the monthly newspaper for kids. Guided by firm beliefs that children are our most valuable resource; a journalistic background is a valuable part of the education experience as it stimulates inquiry, teaches communication and encouraged accuracy and learning from hands-on opportunities is an important and lasting way to educate and activate; Children's newspapers, Inc. invites young people to meet "the people in news" and provides opportunities for students to conduct their own interviews, create their own stories and translate the world's current events from their perspectives.

"But first, we need a name" said Alison Pruitt, founder of the project. Kids are encouraged to send their suggestions to Children's Newspaper, Inc., PO Box 7523, West Palm Beach, FL 33405 or stop by any Palm Beach County McDonald's restaurant before August 6. The organizations children's board will make the final selection and the winner will be notified in August. The child whose name is selected will win a trip to the Florida Keys.

The first issue of their newspaper will be published in early September, but a special pre-issue sponsored by The Gardens Mall will be available at the Mall during its back-to-school promotion August 14-15.
